Forest Service Plans Bethel Office

It is expected that an office, garage and storage depot will be built by the U. S. Forest Service in Bethel next year. The Department of Agriculture recently purchased 2.4 acres on Route 2 (Bridge Street) from Maurice and Rebecca Kendall for this purpose and the purchase is in the hands of the U. S. Attorney General for title clearance.

Construction depends on appropriations in the Department's next fiscal year which will begin July 1, 1963. Location of the office in Bethel will make more convenient the administration of the White Mountain National Forest in this area which is now handled from a Norway office.

COMMENTS FROM THE TOWN MANAGER'S OFFICE

The polls are closed for another election but the results were so close that there might be quite a few recounts requested. The voting was supposed to be fairly light for this off-year election with estimates of around 50%. The voters of Bethel turned out in pretty good numbers and the final results show that about 67% of the registered voters cast a ballot on election day. One of the reasons for the better than average number of voters was the work of the candidates and party workers of both parties. They worked many hours and I am pleased that a large number of voters did vote on election day.

A new yield sign has been installed on Main Street at the junction of Main and Church Streets. Most people traveling up Main St. do yield the right of way to the traffic on Church Street so the sign is there to assist anyone who doesn't know that Route 6 has the right of way.

Two of the town trucks have been working for the state on a piece of road in Albany for the past week. Most of the snow fence is up and the trucks are about ready for winter. There is still some cold patching to do and some of the back roads need to be scraped with the grader.

EACH FAMILY SHOULD HAVE TWO WEEKS SUPPLY OF FOOD

In case of nuclear attack each family should be prepared to spend two weeks in their shelter or basement. This means that enough food and water must be stored in the shelter area for survival.

Water is vital. Most people cannot live longer than four days without it. Water should be stored in tightly closed containers, small or large, however the larger container will take up less space. Some may want to test their stored water for smell and taste every three months, but it is not necessary for health. Odorous water might become it will still be usable in an emergency. One quart of water per day for each person would be a minimum; however, a gallon would provide more comfort.

A two-week supply of food should consist of familiar foods (they are more acceptable during times of stress) and foods that can be served without cooking. Pick cans and packages of a size suitable to your family needs for one meal. The following is a suggested list: 1. Canned items: meat, fish, poultry, beans, peas, fruit; 2. Cereals; 3. Cheese spreads; 4. Peanut butter and jellies; 5. Crackers; 6. Evaporated or dried milk.

After a nuclear attack, food stored indoors (as in refrigerator and freezer) should be safe to eat. In case electricity or gas supplies are cut off, the perishables should be consumed first.

Many foods that people do not eat normally are edible in an emergency, such as moldy bread and sour milk. Fruit and

NOVEMBER SAFETY THEME — WEAR WHITE AFTER DARK

The Maine Highway Safety Committee says that well over half of all pedestrian fatalities occur during hours of darkness. Reduced visibility on the part of both motorists and pedestrians is a major factor in these accidents.

If you plan to walk at night, wear or carry something white in order that motorists will be able to see you. This simple precaution could save your life.

NOTE! "Wear White After Dark" is the safety theme for November which is being emphasized by elementary schools throughout the State in cooperation with the Maine Highway Safety Committee.

William Bickford and Roderick McMillin were in Bethany, Conn., during the week end.

BARTLETT'S OUTSTANDING MAINE TREE FARMERS

The Outstanding Maine Tree Farmer award for 1962 was presented to the 567-acre Urban C. Bartlett & Son Tree Farm of East Bethel. Present to receive the bronze-engraved plaque from Grange Master J. Merrill Hatch at the annual State Grange meeting in Augusta last month were Mr. and Mrs. Bartlett and their son, Clark Bartlett. In addition to the Grange Herald plaque, the Bartletts received a chain saw from representatives of the Stantial-McCulloch Company. The award is given each year to a certified Maine Tree Farmer on the basis of outstanding forest management practices during the previous twelve-month period. Mr. Bartlett has been managing his timber with the assistance of trained foresters since 1955. His woodlands were inspected and certified as a Maine Tree Farm in September 1960. At that time the Tree Farm also became a member of the Oxford Paper Company's Tree Farm Family and Oxford Company foresters have provided management assistance on the Tree Farm during the past two years.

The capacity to use land wisely is not new to the Bartletts. A portion of the Tree Farm has been in the family since 1780, and is still producing a cash crop of forest trees. By putting his woodlands under a program of forest management, Mr. Bartlett has dedicated the land to productive use that will continue the tradition into future generations.

The first member of the Bartlett family to occupy this land was Jonathan Bartlett, who purchased the land from one Joseph Twitchell in 1780. Bartlett had first come to the area in 1779 for the purpose of making maple sugar. He did not stay at that time, but returned the following year when he purchased the land and cleared it for farming. Parts of this original purchase are still farmed up to the present day, but the remainder has long supported stands of timber.

The earliest timber taken from the land was white pine, which was cut into log lengths and floated down the Androscoggin River to the mills at Brunswick. Following the early cuttings and a serious forest fire in 1825, spruce and fir became the major trees harvested for lumber. Cedar was in demand for fences and shingles, and later in the century became an important source of railway ties and telegraph poles.

Additional land purchases were made by members of the Bartlett family in the early 1900's to supply timber for the family sawmill. Some of the former potato growing land purchased at that time now supports merchantable hardwood timber.

The sixth generation of the Bartlett family to take an active part in the management of the land is Clark Bartlett. Following his graduation from Gould Academy, Clark joined his father in active management of the land. With the technical assistance of Oxford Paper Company forester Abbott Ladd, the Bartletts are engaged in a variety of activities directed toward improvements of the family forestlands.

During the 1950s an improvement cut was made over much of the home lot. Defective and scrub pine were removed along with much of the volume of less desirable species, leaving a thrifty stand of white pine and white birch.

Another important project is improvement of timber stands that have come in on some of the abandoned farm lands. This involves the planting of white pine seedlings on portions of the land and the elimination of low-quality hardwoods to make room for young white pine trees. Better quality hardwood trees are left standing as a future source of pulpwood and sawlogs. Since putting their lands under management, the Bartletts have harvested from 25,000 to 30,000 board feet of sawlogs and from 25 to 75 cords of fuel and pulpwood each year. In addition to supplying a source of income, the woodlands also provide lumber for construction purposes on the farm.

Mrs. Bartlett, a teacher in the East Bethel school, frequently brings her pupils to the Tree Farm on nature study trips or to watch management and harvesting operations in the woodlands. In the summer of 1961 Mrs. Bartlett attended the Teachers' Conservation Workshop at Bryant Pond, an intensive three-week course in the natural resources of Maine. By combining this information with her own tree farming background, Mrs. Bartlett is helping to pass on to her pupils the story of wise land use.

The Tree Farm program in Maine is under the direction of the Maine Committee of American Forest Products Industries, Inc. AFPI is sponsor of the nationwide Tree Farm and Keep America Green programs.

GOULD ACADEMY

Gould Second in State Cross Country Meet

Last week the Gould Academy cross country team came through with two fine performances to finish a successful 1962 season. On Tuesday, the team won the Western Maine Cross Country Championship over Mexico, Oxford Hills, Bridgton and Fryeburg Academy.

At Orono, on Thursday, the Huskies competed against 29 teams in their class, with a total of 203 runners. Gould finished second, with Gorham High the winner. The five scorers for Gould were: Dock 7, Grover 11, Damone 19, Lane 31, and Chapman 57, for a team total of 125. Lombard, 84, and Remington, 89, were Gould's other finishers.

Gould 14—Fryeburg 0

A hard-fighting Gould Academy 11 finished their 1962 season with a well-earned 14 to 0 victory over bitter rival Fryeburg in the snow and rain here last Saturday. Some fine running by the Gould backs, especially Jim Corriveau and Bill Jordan, along with some great work by the Husky defensive unit played a big part in the victory.

The first period was played near the middle of the field with neither team threatening. In the second period, after a Fryeburg punt was downed on the fifty yard line, Gould struck hard and fast as they covered the 50 yards for a T. D. in just 6 plays, the big one being a 26 yard run by Tom Hamilton to the one yard line. Art Hammond plunged over on the next play.

Early in the 4th period Fryeburg attempting to punt from their 12 yard line, had the ball centered over the kicker's head, and out of the end zone for a 2 point safety for G. A.

Late in the last period Gould held F. A. on their 48 yard line. Here the winners went all the way in three plays. Bill Jordan made four yards, Tom Hamilton added four more, and Jim Corriveau went around his own left end, weaving his way down the side line for the last forty yards to bring the score to 14-0.

The final victory gave the Huskies a record of three wins and three losses, one they can be proud of considering the quality of the teams played and the inexperience of the Gould squad at the start of the season.

How Super Shell's 9 ingredients can give cars top performance

POWER INGREDIENT in Super Shell works for world champion driver Phil Hill (above, in Ferrari racer). Hill, first American to win the World Championship for Drivers, relies on Super Shell. One important reason: power. Today's Super Shell contains "cat-cracked" gasoline—a power ingredient made by cracking heavier petroleum molecules into lighter, livelier ones. It works to give you the power you need for top performance.

NOISE-FIGHTING INGREDIENTS in Super Shell work for a quiet engine at all speeds. Shell scientists even use a stethoscope (above) to check effect of Super Shell's anti-knock ingredients. One of these ingredients, an anti-knock mix, is so effective that a teaspoon per gallon can boost anti-knock rating five points. Alkylate, another Super Shell ingredient, is noted for controlling knock in hot engines at high speeds better than anything else yet available.

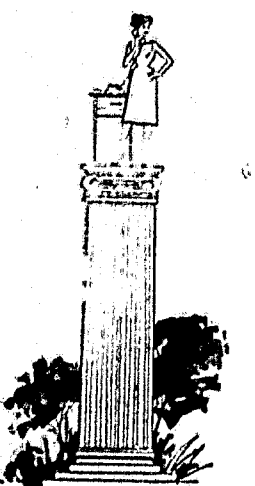

MILEAGE INGREDIENT in Super Shell is Platformate. Shell scientists test it in many cars, many places. In a recent test in San Francisco (above), exactly 250 cc. (about half a pint) of fuel without Platformate was fed into test car. Car ran until fuel was used up, then coasted to a stop (left). Distance: 6186 feet. Test was repeated, using same blend of fuel with Platformate added. Same amount of fuel. Same car. Same conditions. In this test, Super Shell with Platformate took car 6454 feet (right), gave a mileage bonus of 4.3 percent.

TCP* AND FOUR OTHER INGREDIENTS complete Super Shell's 9-ingredient blend. TCP additive can help restore power lost due to combustion deposits—can also extend spark plug life. Butane is for quick starts. Pentane mix helps engines run smoothly during "warm-up." The gum preventive ingredient is to help keep carburetors clean inside. And, when the weather calls for it, Super Shell contains an anti-icer. That's nine ingredients in Super Shell—scientifically blended to give your car top performance.

*Trademark for Shell's unique gasoline additive. Gasoline containing TCP is covered by U.S. Patent 2889212.
